The School of Kinesiology and Health Studies at Queen’s University invites applications from suitably qualified candidates interested in redesigning and teaching an existing course - PACT 338 – Outdoor Education. Candidates should have a graduate degree at the Master’s level or higher, in a relevant field, and related teaching experience combined with demonstrated course design/redesign experience.

This is a two-part Course Redesign and Term Adjunct Teaching position comprised of an initial course redesign followed by course delivery as follows:

Part 1 - Course Redesign (to be completed by 30 June 2018)
Redesign the existing PACT 338 – Outdoor Education course and prepare the curriculum package for submission to the SKHS and Faculty of Arts and Science curriculum committees. PACT 338 is currently an activity-based course designed to meet the requirements of the Bachelor of Physical and Health Education program, which has been closed. SKHS would like to redesign the course to align it with the objectives of the Kinesiology program while retaining the experiential and outdoor learning component (multi-day canoe trip or other outdoor activity).

The revised course content may draw from the range of disciplines within kinesiology including the applied exercise sciences, psychology and socio-cultural studies of sport and physical activity, and/or health promotion and physical activity epidemiology. Course redesign proposals should articulate the preliminary vision for the course and the primary disciplines that will be drawn from. In addition, the course revisions must include topics and activities that will help the School to respond to the recommendations in the Final Report of the Queen's Truth and Reconciliation Commission Task Force to “thoroughly integrate Indigenous knowledge into curricula across academic programs” (recommendation 21), and specifically to “expand opportunities for experiential Indigenous programming” including land-based learning opportunities for Indigenous and non-Indigenous students (recommendation 21.3). The anticipated course enrolment is approximately 40 students.

This course redesign element will be compensated as a one-time payment for additional duties in accordance with the QUFA Collective Agreement 2015/2019.

Part 2 – Teaching Delivery of Redesigned PACT 338/3.0 – Outdoor Education in the capacity of Term Adjunct (01 September 2019 – 31 December 2019).
Deliver PACT 338/3.0 – Outdoor Education (new title to be determined) in the revised format in the capacity of Term Adjunct in the Fall Term 2019 in accordance with the QUFA Collective Agreement 2015/2019.

A complete course redesign proposal/ Adjunct application consists of:

1. An Expression of Interest (2 - 3 pages) that addresses the following:
   - Why are you interested in redesigning the Outdoor Education course? What previous experiences have you had that make you a strong candidate for the position?
   - Briefly describe your vision for the course including a description of how it would align with the kinesiology degree plan and a list of potential topics that would be covered.
   - Provide a brief description of possible assessment activities and of the experiential, outdoor activity that you would propose for the course.
   - Describe your teaching philosophy and in particular, how you would aim to create a culturally respectful and inclusive learning environment in the course.
2. A current Curriculum Vitae
3. Contact information for 3 References

Adjudication Process
1. Applicants to prepare and submit their course redesign proposal complete with their Term Adjunct application as a single package in accordance with the deadline.
2. The SKHS Director will adjudicate the competition and award it to the candidate with the strongest course redesign proposal component combined with the best teaching experience background.
3. The successful applicant will prepare and submit their final course redesign by no later than 30 June 2018.
4. The SKHS Director may require additional edits to the course redesign.
5. Upon final approval from the SKHS Director on the final course design submission, the successful candidate will then be offered the Teaching Adjunct position to deliver PACT 338/3.0 – Outdoor Education in Fall Term 2019.

You may send your combined course redesign proposal / Term Adjunct teaching position application in MS Word or PDF format via email to: skhs.director@queensu.ca or send hard copies of your package directly to:
