ACADEMIC CONSIDERATION FOR STUDENTS

The Faculty of Arts and Science Protocol for Short-Term Academic Consideration is intended to guide undergraduate students admitted to the Faculty of Arts and Science (studying on campus, online and at the Bader International Study Centre (BISC)), instructors, departmental and Faculty office staff, in situations where extenuating circumstances are interfering with a student's ability to complete academic requirements related to a course(s) for a short period of time not to exceed three months. This protocol was developed in response to the recently-approved Senate Policy on Academic Consideration for Students in Extenuating Circumstances.®

PERSONAL INTEREST CREDIT

In order to encourage students to explore subject matter outside their program of study and to promote interdisciplinary study, all upper-year Arts and Science students will be permitted to designate up to 6.0 units of degree-credit courses for pass/fail grading, thereby minimizing any risk to the students' GPA. Such courses designated for pass/fail grading will be referred to as Personal Interest Credits (PICs).

Call for Papers
THE 17th ANNUAL MACINTOSH SOCIOLOGY OF SPORT CONFERENCE
Saturday, 26 January 2019, Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario

The School of Kinesiology and Health Studies at Queen's University would like to invite all those interested in socio-cultural studies of sport and exercise to our annual day conference, held in the memory of our colleague Dr. Donald Macintosh.

The conference programme will consist of several sessions of graduate student presentations, a catered lunch, and the annual Donald Macintosh Memorial Lecture, which will be given this year by Dr. Janelle Joseph who will speak on "Embodied, Racialized and/or (De)Colonial Learning in the Ivory Tower." Dr. Joseph received her PhD from the Faculty of Kinesiology and Physical Education at the University of Toronto. She completed a Postdoctoral Fellowship at the University of Otago in New Zealand, and held a Banting Postdoctoral Fellowship at the University of Ontario Institute of Technology. Dr. Joseph is co-editor of Race and Sport in Canada: Intersecting Inequalities and of Alternative Offender Rehabilitation and Social Justice: Arts and Physical Engagement in Criminal Justice and Community Settings. She is also the author of Sport in the Black Atlantic: Cricket, Canada and the Caribbean Diaspora, which was published in 2017. Dr. Joseph is an adjunct faculty member at the University of Toronto, where she is also the Director of the Academic Success Centre and the Assistant Director of the Transitional Year Program.

Graduate students who would like to present their work at the conference should send a 250-word abstract or a proposal for a roundtable discussion or poster to Mary Louise Adams (mla1@queensu.ca) by Monday, 17 December 2018. We are looking for presentations of works-in-progress, as well as presentations of completed research.

In selecting papers for the conference, priority will be given to students who submit independent research and who are first-time Macintosh presenters; second priority will be given to students who submit research as part of a faculty research team and who are first-time Macintosh presenters; third priority will be given to returning Macintosh presenters. All applicants will be given the option to present their research in the form of a poster.

Kingston is accessible by VIA rail or bus. It is a two hour and 45 minute drive from downtown Toronto or downtown Montreal. It is a two-hour drive from Ottawa and a one-hour drive from Watertown, New York. Registration fees are $30 for faculty and $20 for students.

For information or to add your name to our email list, please contact Mustafa Karaçam (mustafa.karacam@queensu.ca).

Employment and Volunteering – Campus Life

- ✓ Getting connected with your community will help you find balance and will contribute to your overall success as a student.
- ✓ Looking for a way to get involved with others? Want to make a difference locally or globally? Volunteer for a cause you believe in and give back to your Queen's and Kingston community at the same time.
- ✓ Just need to earn some money to support your time at school? Working part-time is an excellent opportunity to contribute to your financial plan.
- ✓ Through employment or volunteering (or both!), you can gain valuable work experience, learn to manage your time, and expand your business and social network.

Congratulations to Colleen Bumstead (KIN '19) and Claire Swarbrick (PHE '20) who just joined the campus tour guide team. We know that they'll make a difference with lots of visitors to Queen's who are starting the search for the correct degree program!

"Queen's is a school that is rich with traditions and spirit, qualities that I find set the University apart from all others, and the reason that I truly love Queen's. It is intoxicating to volunteer and be a part of guiding tours at Queen's University, as it is an exciting way to share my passion for the Kinesiology and Health Studies programs. It is extremely satisfying to have the opportunity to give back to a community that has made me feel welcome, included and has allowed me to grow and develop as a student. Being a tour guide is a great way to become involved and learn more about Queen's University as a whole!"

C. Swarbrick

Check the above website for deadlines for applying for these employment and volunteer opportunities, available at differing times of the year!

QUEEN'S EQUITY CONFERENCE

FEBRUARY 2ND, 9AM - 5PM

 QEC_ASUS

 QUEENSEQUITYCONFERENCE

Queen's Equity Conference (QEC) is a one-day conference under the Arts & Science Undergraduate Society Equity Commission. QEC was inaugurated in 2016 and this year will mark the third annual conference. Attended by approximately 100 undergraduate Queen's delegates, the conference features speaker presentations, workshops, and panels addressing a variety of equity-based issues. Last year's conference addressed topics such as Indigenous activism, sexual assault on university campuses, and issues facing the queer community.

This year, we are curating an event that will be addressing an even wider variety of topics that provide learning opportunities for our delegates. We are planning to address topics like toxic masculinity/bro-culture on the Queen's campus, navigating academia as a person of colour, self- and community-care following sexual violence, and allyship in all its forms.

- If you are interested in signing up, visit <https://www.queensasus.com/qec-equityconference>
- If you'd like to learn more or have any questions regarding this year's conference, please don't hesitate to email us at qec@asus.queensu.ca

Distributing Reproduction, Mining Liquid Gold: Uneven Geographies of Human Milk Exchange

Human milk is being shuttled through geographically-extensive networks of glass jars, pasteurization machines, and medical clinics. In this talk I trace how and where human milk is exchanged. How are new markets in milk shaped by processes of uneven development, technologies of biomedicalization, and racialized/gendered/religious notions of good mothering? By following human milk through American for-profit corporations, Brazil, and South Africa, I argue for taking human milk infrastructure seriously as a form of distributed reproduction that shapes living-being in cities in uneven ways.

The 17th Annual Crossroads Interdisciplinary Health Research Conference

March 15th-16th, 2019

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada

About Crossroads

The Annual Crossroads Interdisciplinary Health Research Conference is a national, student-led health research conference taking place March 15th and 16th, 2019 in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. Now in its 17th year, Crossroads is hosted annually by the Graduate Student Society at the School of Health and Human Performance, Dalhousie University and is one of the longest-running events of its kind. Crossroads is an adjudicated, peer-reviewed event for student researchers at all levels of study and offers a unique opportunity to showcase and engage in dialogue about innovative health research. Additionally, it provides a forum for interdisciplinary learning and collaboration between students and experts. The conference welcomes submissions from students in a wide range of health-related disciplines for oral and poster presentations. This year's conference theme is "Growing the Future of Collaborative Health Research".

Who Should Attend

This conference is of interest to student researchers at any level of study (including undergraduate, graduate, professional, and post-doctoral). Students studying any topic related to health are invited to submit an abstract for consideration. The planning committee strongly encourages submission of projects related to interprofessional or interdisciplinary health topics, the social determinants of health and/or approaches to health challenges.

Abstract Submission Information

Please refer to the Abstract Submission and Presentation Guidelines for full details regarding the submission process

- Abstracts must be submitted by visiting dalcrossroads.com and clicking 'Submit an Abstract'.
- Abstracts will be received November 19th, 2018, 12:00am (AST) until January 18th, 2019, 11:59pm (AST).
- Abstracts may be submitted for proposed, ongoing, or completed research projects, including literature synthesis and secondary analysis projects .
- All accepted abstracts must be presented at the Crossroads Conference as either a poster presentation or an oral presentation (10 minutes, with 5 additional minutes for questions). Due to time constraints, the number of oral presentation spaces is limited. Successful submissions may instead be offered a poster presentation.
- Abstracts must be no longer than 2000 characters in length and follow a structured format. Headings for Introduction, Methods, Results/Anticipated Results, and Conclusions/Significance must be included. Titles may be up to 120 characters in length.

Please contact the planning committee at dalcihrc@dal.ca for more information

Are you a post-secondary student? Do you sit often?

The Queen's Revved Up Lab is looking for participants for a study on sedentary behaviour (sitting). We are interested to hear your opinions and beliefs on sedentary behavior "sitting"!

Research involves completing two brief (approx. 20 minute) surveys, one week apart. Questions will ask about your thoughts and feelings about sitting and will ask you to report the amount of time you sit. Post-secondary students are eligible to participate if they are 18 years or older, and able to communicate in English.

Participants will be entered into a draw for a $25 gift certificate!

If you are interested in participating in this study or if you want more information, contact us at 15sc31@queensu.ca

This study has been reviewed by and granted clearance by Queen's University General Research Ethics Board

If you are looking to attend an exciting and interesting conference this semester, check out UNICEF in Action Drawing Parallels: Child Soldiers vs. Youth in Gangs! We have a limited number of early bird ticket available and registration is currently open! Make sure to check out our event page for daily updates on the conference!

Event page: <https://www.facebook.com/events/775111156185112/>

What is the conference about?

This year's UNICEF in Action theme explores the dimensions of child soldiers and youth in gangs, two of the most common ideas that come to mind when thinking about children and violence. Both are very distinctive in numerous ways, including location, where it's common, recruitment, and roles and experiences of the children. Our goal with this conference is to provide awareness and a better understand of the complexities within children and violence. Become a part of the discussion about such a prevalent topic and discuss potential ways forward with our keynote speakers, panelists, and workshop hosts at this conference.

Guest Speakers:

Mark Handelman, B.A., LL.B., MHS (bioethics)

Mark Handelman was called to the Ontario Bar in 1978. Until 2001, he practised law in London, Ontario, including civil litigation, criminal defence and prosecution. He was one of Ontario's first members of the Official Guardian Child Representation Program. Mark was appointed to the Consent & Capacity Board in 1998 and became a Vice Chair and Senior Lawyer Member in 2000. He became Acting Toronto Regional Vice Chair and then Regional Vice Chair in 2001, for which he stopped practicing law and moved to Toronto. He was the Board's only Vice Chair for quality assurance and presided at about 2000 Board Hearings—including the majority of the Board's "end of life" cases. Mark's term on the Board expired in 2008 and he is now in the private practice of health care law, representing health practitioners, SDMs and patients and advising and teaching health care providers. He also prepares wills and Powers of Attorney, particularly for persons with limited capacity, and is frequently retained by other lawyers to assist their clients with these important documents. He is Counsel to the law firm Whaley Estate Litigation, advising on guardianship and estate litigation matters and is a Lawyer Member of the Ontario Human Rights Tribunal, where he mediates and adjudicates Human rights complaints.

David Campbell, PhD

David Campbell is the Ethicist with Kingston Health Sciences Centre. He provides ethics services and support for clinicians, staff, patients and families at the Kingston General Hospital site via ethics consultations, education, and policy review and development. As well as providing ethics leadership at KHSC, David supports ethics capacity development in the community by co-chairing the Southeastern Ontario Regional Ethics Network and participating in regional ethics councils. Before joining KHSC David was an Ethicist at the South East Community Care Centre. He has also worked as an Ethicist in hospitals in California and Alberta before moving to Kingston four years ago.

David has a PhD in Philosophy from McMaster University and completed a fellowship in Clinical Ethics at the Royal Alexandra Hospital in Edmonton, AB. Before becoming an Ethicist, David was a university professor and taught courses in Bioethics, Political Philosophy, the Philosophy of Law, and Peace Studies at Conestoga College, McMaster University, and the University of Waterloo. David has lived in four provinces and three countries and originally hails from Prince Edward Island.

- WED JAN 23 Speak with Confidence: Presentation & Tutorial Skills \(Workshop\)
1:30pm – 2:20pm Giving presentations and participating confidently in class can be scary. What are professors looking for, why do they ask you to give presentations, and how can you speak with confidence and clarity? We'll show you some simple but powerful strategies to overcome anxiety, speak with confidence, and boost your presentation and participation grades.
Location: Stauffer Library room 121
- THUR JAN 24 Math Problem Solving Workshop
1:30pm – 2:20pm Got math? Join our workshop on solving math problems. Using actual worked problems, we'll help you learn to recognize and apply underlying concepts, express real-world problems in mathematical language, and understand the hows and whys of the problem-solving process.
Key concepts include exponential decay, unit conversion, dominant eigenvalues, vector calc and maybe even a little modelling!
Everyone welcome.
Co-presented by math whiz Yuliya Nesterova and learning strategist Claire Hooker.
Location: Stauffer Library room 121

Canada Royal Milk is coming to campus on Wednesday Jan 23, 2019 - 5:30 PM to 6:30 PM in Gordon Hall Room 324.

Canada Royal Milk will also be attending the 2019 Winter Engineering & Technology Fair. Come to Grant Hall between 10:30am and 3:30pm on Wednesday, January 23rd for an additional opportunity to meet with representatives from the company.

About this Session

We invite you to meet with representatives from Canada Royal Milk ULC for an inside look at the company's work and current opportunities.

Target Audience

4th-year undergraduate students in the following areas of study:

- Computer Engineering
- Electrical Engineering
- Mathematics & Engineering
- Mechanical Engineering
- Computing
- Health Sciences

About the Company

Canada Royal Milk is the Canadian company established by Feihe International Inc., China's largest domestic producer of infant formula and infant nutrition products. We are part of an iconic Chinese Company that is a leader in the development of nutritional science that aims to improve the health and nutrition of the people who use our products. Canada Royal Milk's new smart manufacturing facility is under construction in Kingston, Ontario and when we begin production in Fall 2019, we will be the only company in Canada manufacturing infant formula. Our production process is unique, blending the formulations from fresh liquid milk before dehydration to produce the finished product. We will be the only company in North America that will produce formulations from both cow and goat milk. We are building a new Canadian company which will combine best practices in the production of infant formula from our parent company, technology from around the globe, and the knowledge, skills and expertise of Canadian talent. The best part of the working at Canada Royal Milk will be your opportunity to shape it. We'll be spending the next few months setting up and developing our team, and as an early member, you'll have plenty of input. That means you'll contribute to our success in many ways: everything from shaping our team and processes, to execution and growth.

Canada Royal Milk will begin production in the fall, and we are interested in speaking with students who will be available for full-time employment in 2019. As a start-up company, supervisory or management positions require direct and recent work experience of five years or more. New graduates will be considered for entry-level or intermediate roles depending upon work or applied experience. Positions are posted as job descriptions are completed, and all positions are posted until filled. Applications will be accepted online: www.canadaroyalmilk.com.
