

Course Name: KNPE 366/3.0 Race, Sport and Physical Activity	Course Instructor: Dr. Courtney Szto	Contact Hours: Lectures: 2 x 1.5 hrs / 12 weeks
		Prerequisite: KNPE 167 or HLTH 101 Level 3 or above in KINE or HLTH plan
Course Description: This course offers a critical exploration into (1) how the social construction of race affects sport, health, and physical activity cultures, and (2) how sport may influence our understanding of race more broadly in society. We will discuss how racism can be experienced, reproduced, and/or challenged in sport and health spaces. The end goal is to understand how sport and health practitioners can incorporate antiracism work into their everyday operations.		Exclusion: KNPE 397 topic ID Race, Sport and Physical Cultures (F'18; F'20)
		Course Texts: Joseph, J., Nakamura, Y. & Darnell, S. (2012). Race and Sport in Canada: Intersecting inequalities . Toronto: Canadian Scholar's Press. • Additional readings are posted on OnQ as Course Reserves
Learning Outcomes: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Be comfortable discussing issues around race, ethnicity, and racism as they pertain to sports and physical activity.• Recognize the difference between diversity/inclusion work versus anti-racism and justice oriented work.• Understand how race intersects with other forms of oppression and privilege.• Be comfortable navigating WordPress and translating research for a public audience.• Be able to apply the theory learned in this course to sport management, sport policy, health promotion, and/or medical contexts.
